LOCAL NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

POSTPONED TAG DAY BY SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army postponed its tag day, announced for Saturday last, because the Canadian Legion was holding its Poppy Day. It will likely be held on Saturday, Nov. 25, stated Captain Watson, and all are asked to respond as generously as possible. In the other Pass towns, Salvation Army tag day was held, and the results were above the collections of former years. It is hoped Coleman will show up well.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Easton, Mrs. J. L. Lonsbury and Mrs. Nash went to Calgary for the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Easton. Mrs. Malcolm Morrison, a daughter, from Wetaskiwin, and her son Saunders, of Edmonton, were also present. The Canadian Legion, of Coleman, forwarded a congratulatory letter to the honored couple.

FINE CONCERT ON NOV. 15

On Wednesday, Nov. 15, a concert under the direction of Dr. C. Rose, will be held in the community hall, and half the proceeds will be given to the Red Cross Society. In addition to local artists, Mrs. Gordon Steeves, of Blainville, who has been heard in festival singing, and Mr. Gordon Finley, of Cranbrook, violinist, will take part. Some of the choral selections are of high order, and it is a long time since a concert of such high musical calibre has been presented in Coleman. The admission price is with-in the reach of all at 35c for adults, and for children under 16 at 25c. Programs will be placed on sale, which will take the place of admission tickets.

THANKS FOR THE APRON

Last week a classified ad. announced the loss of a lady's apron. It was returned to the owner, being left in the door handle of the house where she lived. The person who returned it is hereby thanked.

DUCKS OR HELL-DIVERS?

Duck hunters always have a keen eye. On Sunday Howard C. McBurney, while taking a leisurely drive around Crow's Nest Lake, spied some birds bobbing around on the rough water, it being very windy. As he sat gazing at them, Bob Pattinson came along in his car. He stopped and looked, and had a confab with Howard about them. However, they decided they were mostly hell-divers, so did not contemplate making a visit early next morning to see if they were still there.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Easton wish to thank their many Coleman friends for all their goodwill messages on their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Easton are still enjoying the best of health and look forward to meeting their Coleman friends when in Calgary.

He who lives only to benefit himself confers on the world a benefit when he leaves it.—Tertullian.

HELD BY BRITISH

Dr. Ernst (Pats) Hanfstaengl, one-time close friend of Adolf Hitler, was said by acquaintances to have been interned by the British government. His case, it was said, would be reviewed by one of the special tribunals created by the British home office to deal with "enemy aliens."

GENERAL MEETING ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION

At the general meeting of St. John Ambulance Association, held on Sunday, Oct. 29, the financial statement was passed. Election of officers took place as follows:

Hon. Presidents, G. Kellock, J. O. C. McDonald, R. M. Greenhalgh and E. Morgan (Blainmore).

President, A. McCulloch; vice-president, H. Parkinson; secretary-treasurer, J. M. Rushon.

Executive committee: school, J. McDonald and R. Spillers; international, H. Turner, E. Hill and J. Goulding; McGillivray, J. Simla, J. Jasinsky and E. Ukrainetz.

Instructors: H. Parkinson, A. McCulloch, E. Hill, E. X. Hill.

Lecturers: Dr. Rose and Dr. Claxton; examiner, Dr. Aiello.

Classes will commence on Sunday, Nov. 5, and we are asking all the ladies from the age of 16 years to attend these classes. Doctor will give his lecture at 2 p.m.

SCHOOL TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Messrs. J. Cousins, Ray Spillers and Steve Ondrus, of Coleman schools, are attending the convention of school teachers at Lethbridge. Sidney White, a former public school teacher of Coleman, now high school teacher at Blainmore, will preside at the convention.

Principal D. Hoyle, Horace Allen, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Clifford and Miss Higginbotham will attend, and some from Cameron school are expected to attend.

WEDDINGS

McDONALD—BOYLE

The marriage of Ellen Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Boyle, of Bellevue, and James Francis McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald, of Coleman, took place on Monday morning, Oct. 23, in St. Cyril's church, Bellevue.

The bride, given away by her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Upton. Nuptial High Mass celebrated by Rev. Father O'Dea followed. The choir consisted of Sheila and Brownie Devine and Peggy McDonald, with Isabel McDonald at the organ. During the signing of the register, Gounod's Ave Maria was beautifully rendered by Peggy McDonald, sister of the groom.

The bride looked lovely in an afternoon dress of teal blue, with wine accessories and a corsage of roses. Miss Ellen Smith, of Bellevue, wearing rust dress, with green accessories, attended the bride, while Feruccio DeCocco, of Coleman, supported the groom.

Following the ceremony, immediate relatives and friends partook of a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. A toast to the bride was proposed by Father O'Dea and the groom responded.

The happy couple left for a short honeymoon, accompanied by the best wishes of friends and relatives.

This wedding marked the 23rd anniversary of the bride's parents' marriage in the same church. It also brought to mind that the bride's father was best man at the wedding of the groom's parents 27 years ago.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts at a shower given in her honor in Bellevue, at which over 100 people were present.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD USE A TYPEWRITER

With portable typewriters obtainable at low prices, everyone who has writing to do—business men, storekeepers, teachers, etc.—should learn to type. It is easy, and others are not inflected with the misery of trying to decipher what often is unintelligible writing. See the display ad. in this issue to find how easily you can purchase a Remington machine. By the use of a portable you give neatness to your letters, making it a pleasure instead of a task to write, and also a pleasure to read by the recipient.

LEARNING THE BUGLE CALLS

When this wolfhound hears "Reveille" he'll know it's time to go and waken the boys. At least, that's the hope of this bugler of the 53rd Battery, R.C.A., who is teaching the mascot what the calls mean. He already recognizes the melodious notes which mean "come to the cookhouse door."

LOCAL NEWS

There is a report that efforts are being made to obtain leave for all Coleman men, who are serving in military units in Calgary, for the week end of Nov. 11, so that a community smoker in their honor may be arranged in the Community hall.

LOCAL NEWS

Granville Greenhalgh, who in April last went to live on his fruit ranch at Arrow Park, B.C., is here for a few weeks' visit. Things in general on the lakes are very good, he stated, and he is looking quite well, thank you!

The Cheapest, The Surest

And, truly, the best way of letting the public in on the fact that you:—

Have something to sell;
Want to buy something;
Are introducing a new line—

The best way, we say, to get these facts to the eyes of everyone in this district is through the columns of The Journal and Bulletin. Don't keep it a secret—let the buying public know about it, and at small cost per reader.

Coleman Juniors, Eagles, Organize for 1939-40 Season

Ray Spillers Will Manage Fast Junior Team, With Stuart Murdoch as Coach.

Meeting in the council chamber last Friday, last season's juveniles decided to organize as a junior team. The executive appointed includes R. Spillers, manager; Dino De Martin, secretary-treasurer; S. Murdoch, coach; B. Fontana, trainer.

In order to raise funds for equipment, the club is sponsoring a dance to be held in the Italian hall on Friday, Nov. 17, for which an advance sale of tickets will be made.

CANADIANS' SECRETARY

More Players For Canadians

In addition to the players mentioned on the Canadians' line-up last week, several others will endeavor to make the team. These include George Jenkins, Norman Schnepf and Pete Brown, all former Canadian players, who will make a strong bid for places. Two Hillcrest boys, Johnny Eliek and Jerry Seaman, will also try out. Both are well known to local ball fans, they having helped Coleman to the Alberta intermediate ball title this fall. Johnny Shepherd, of Edmonton, former national hockey league star, arrived in town on Tuesday and will line up with Canadians on defence. He is the brother of Frankie, who starred here with the Selkirk boys in 1924-25.

The team had expected to train at Lethbridge on Wednesday, but plans were changed at the last minute. Frank Aboussay states the Lethbridge trip will be made on Sunday next.

THEATRES

FEATURE PICTURES AT PALACE AND COLE'S THEATRES

On Saturday and Monday at the Palace the grand Broadway stage success, "Golden Boy," now a memorable picture, will be shown, starring Barbara Stanwyck, Adolphe Menjou and William Holden. It is the story of Jon Bonaparte, the golden boy endowed with the talents of a great violinist and a great firefighter. It is from the great group theatre stage play by Clifford Odets.

On Tuesday and Wednesday at the Palace, John Barrymore, George Murphy, Jack Haley and several other star players will appear in "Hold That Co-Ed." Here you see campus cutters-uppers and sassy-cuties, sparkling and larking, singing and swinging.

BIG FEATURE AT COLE'S

Fateful foes in a celebrated case, friends and foes of a woman who revolted unflinchingly against the grim, inescapable machinery of war—such is a glimpse of the famous picture, "Nurse Edith Cavell." If ever there was a martyr to the British cause and war stricken humanity, it was this brave British nurse, who was cruelly executed by a German firing squad for aiding war prisoners.

Her name will ever be enshrined in the glorious annals of British history. The picture will be shown on Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week, Nov. 2-4.

"I have no fear nor shrinking; I have seen death so often that it is not strange or fearful to me." These were among her last words to her chaplain immediately prior to her execution, the most foul blot of the Great War against a Christian woman.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Attention is called to the display advertisement of Steve Bencko's shoe store. He is the dealer for Ritchie's famous shoes, and now that winter is coming, it is a good time to call and buy a pair or more of these high-grade shoes. The prices run from $5. Read the ad.

The whist drive under the auspices of the Coleman Soldier's Comfort Fund committee was well attended, 25 tables being in play. Prize winners were: ladies, Miss E. Glendenning, Mrs. L. C. Grant; Mrs. Kovach won the door prize; gents, Mr. L. C. Grant, first; Mrs. S. B. Ryan, second; Mr. A. McCulloch won the door prize.

FRED GUERARD hands out "the dope" on big things for 1939-40 quest by Canadians for the Allan Cup.

With the early approach of winter, the executive of the Canadian Hockey Club were called into session on Wednesday, Oct. 25, in the Grand Union hotel, to put into action their plans for the 1939-40 hockey season.

The team being at full strength and waiting for action, plans were laid for pre-season training. In the event that ice is not available here, arrangements have been made to take the team to Lethbridge twice weekly for practice before the league opener Saturday, Nov. 18.

Considerable planning has been done to improve the comfort of the fans in the arena, and this week finds the arena crew industriously scrubbing down the seats and walls in preparation for a coat of aluminum paint, if weather conditions permit. The hard surfacing in the rink will be white-washed to make whiter ice, and the players' and penalty boxes will be enlarged. Consideration for the needs of press and radio men are being attended to with suitable stalls equipped with desks arranged adjacent to the timekeepers' box.

Waiting room accommodation for men and women are being rearranged. The room formerly used by the visiting clubs on the south west corner is being renovated, cleaned and painted for the use of ladies, and the room adjoining it will as formerly be the general waiting room. The room on the north west end will be extended and divided into three sections, the referees' room in the centre and the players' rooms on either side.

A new public address system is being tried out in the arena, and if suitable will be installed to keep the fans posted on scores, penalties and other highlights during the game. The big electric clock at the east end of the arena is being overhauled and put in working order.

After a lapse of two years, the club has decided to again resume their annual dances, and one to look forward to will be held early in November.

A season ticket a week will be raffled off. Fans can help both Girl Guides and the Coleman Canadians by purchasing a chance on these tickets. The drawings will be made at the Palace theatre and the winner's name will be published in the Coleman Journal every week. Should a season ticket holder win, the cash equivalent will be given.

Season programs will soon leave the publishers and be available for hockey fans. The winners will be able to attend the games, who would otherwise be working.

The ground-work for an ice carnival to be held in January is being laid and much work and planning will be done to make this one of the events of the year.

The schedule for this season was drawn up at the insistence of the local representatives to the league meeting to include a greater share of Saturday games for Coleman's home games, the result being five Saturday games, five Wednesday games, and the balance on Fridays and Mondays. This schedule will enable a greater number of local fans to attend the games who would otherwise be working.

The selfish man suffers more from his selfishness than he from whom the selfishness withholds some important benefit.—Emerson.

A Basic Problem

While much has been said of the importance of the use of fire prevention methods in the bush country because of the immense losses caused by one of the most valuable resources of the country, timber, as the result of uncurbed conflagrations, little thought has been given to the fact that such fires occasion other and irreparable losses.

Reference is made particularly to the destruction of valuable wild life as a result of fires raging through bush areas and particularly in the northern reaches of these prairie provinces.

Evidence that forest fire prevention is brought to the attention of the world at large by biologists and engineers working in the employ of Ducks Unlimited in the hinterland of Alberta, as reported by Wendel Borthwick in a recent issue of Forest and Outdoors, official publication of the Canadian Forestry Association.

The tremendous loss of wild life and of valuable timber resulting from carelessness and insufficient protection in the forests of the great Northland regions of the prairie provinces indicates the necessity for greater precautions being taken in the future if this wonderful heritage is to be conserved to the use of present and succeeding generations and for the pleasure and sport of the people of this country and visitors from outside.

A few extracts from Mr. Borthwick's article will constitute a revelation to the great majority of the people in the more populous areas of the west and should awaken them to the absolute necessity for greater and more effective conservation measures. For instance, to quote Mr. Borthwick:

Sixty Per Cent. Destroyed

"Last winter—when Ducks Unlimited engineers and wild life technicians reconnoitred expanses of Alberta's Northland, selected blocks for further study and development as wild life production centres at Mackay Lakes and Gordon Lake—Dr. A. D. Bajkov, aquatic biologist, reported that 60 per cent. of the forests in the adjacent regions had been destroyed by recent fires. Working on these projects during the winter and the spring, Ducks Unlimited parties had some hot times, fighting fires that broke up from the underlying muskeg through the snow—and threatened camps and lives.

"Fires were particularly prevalent this season in the Northland—due to light rainfall and persistent drying up of surface waters. All summer the men on the D.U. projects have worked under the menace of fires. Lloyd Bunting, engineer in charge of development work at Gordon Lake Reports that, during June, 38 per cent. of his crew's time was required to fight fires. "Up to the time of reporting, while fire had blasted big stretches outside, they had succeeded in keeping flames from destroying any large stretches of nesting areas within the project. The tremendous efforts necessary to achieve this indicate that the numbers of nesting ducks and ducklings destroyed in the destructive sweep of such fires in previous seasons must have reached staggering totals. Roaming, unchecked, over vast expanses of the Northland—these fires leave drastic evidence of their killing power in blackened forests, smoking muskegs and depleted waters—barren of fur, fin or feather; and in starving nations whose pots hang empty over dead fires."

Will Lose Everything

Again, to quote Colonel Newcomen in a report after he had inspected D.U. projects:

"Before I left for Gordon Lake I heard that fires were burning all around that region. When we flew over Gordon Lake I could see three fires: one southeast of Garrison Lake, approximately on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border; one east of Gypsy Lake, in our blocks; and one right in the centre of Gordon Lake, on the point where I camped last winter. . . . The fire burning on the boundary of our Gordon Lake project would cover some three miles frontage. It is impossible to describe how much damage it has already done. The fire east of Gypsy Lake must have covered about a mile frontage, where it was still burning. The damage done by the fire we fought on the point where our old camp was situated, I cannot estimate, since it was burning when I left. I wouldn't be surprised if the whole point was burned out and valuable timber lost and good cover destroyed.

"It is vital," says Col. Newcomen, "that fire control be organized before we do anything else for we will lose everything. Some of these fires may be set by careless natives. They wander over land and water trails, we don't know how yet; and are gone. Then—fire. If they could only be brought to understand that these fires (most of them man-made) are the chief cause of wildlife depletion—and their own empty bellies."

One could not better sum up a discourse on such a topic than to quote the words with which Mr. Borthwick concludes his article:

"The success of any program of developing the Northland to utilize its vast potential wealth in timber, waterfowl, big game, fur, fish and scenic assets, depends upon one simple basic problem; controlling fire and water."

Shape Of Human Frame

Apparently Has Something To Do With The Length Of Life

Human body shapes that add an average of about 25 years to life were reported to the National Academy of Sciences. All were for men only. This was not because feminine shapes may not have the same effects, but because the studies have not been made on women.

In general, it is bad for a man to be far from the average American or Canadian in weight and chest size. Those who lean toward the overweight class are taking more chances of premature death with the reaper than the men who tend to become skinny.

The study was made by Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University, who a little more than a year ago made the report that tobacco smoking always shortens life. Collaborating with him was Dr. W. Edwin Moffett of Johns Hopkins. A new finding recently was that high pulse rate was a forecast of early deaths, including, curiously enough, accidents.

Elevated blood pressures, contrary to what most persons expect, were a sign of long life in the heart cases.

Unanimous Vote

The negro preacher's term had expired and he was anxious to stay on. "Brethren," he said, "the time has come for you all to elect a pastor for another year. All those favoring me will please say 'aye'."

He waited a moment and then he said: "Silence gives consent. I see you pastor for another year."

Western Canada Fairs

Exhibition Association As Well As Fairs Organization To Meet At Winnipeg

Sid W. Johns, secretary-manager of the Saskatchewan exhibition, has announced dates of the main exhibition organizations.

As president of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions he called the annual meeting of that group for Dec. 5 and 6, at Chicago. The dates coincide with the International Livestock Show, also held at Chicago.

As secretary of the Western Canadian Association of Exhibitions, Mr. Johns announced the annual meeting of that body would be held at Winnipeg on Jan. 15, 16, and 17. At this meeting, attractions, midway and new features for the class A circuit in western Canada will be selected and dates of the class A fairs, confirmed.

Mr. Johns said he had advocated, as past-president of the Canadian Association of Exhibitions, that the annual meeting of organizations be held at Ottawa from Nov. 20 to Dec. 1. Due to cancellation of the Toronto Royal Winter Fair, he believed it necessary to hold the meeting in Ottawa, where members could confer with the government respecting wartime activities, Mr. Johns asserted.

The Western Canada Fairs Association, which is composed of member fairs on the B circuit, will meet in Winnipeg, Jan. 15, 16, and 17, to coincide with the meeting of the Western Canada Association of Exhibitions.

He was satisfied, Mr. Johns said, that all western Canada fairs would be conducted in 1940, despite the war conditions. Policies would be adjusted, however, to conform with the changed conditions.

Studying Indian Customs

American Scientist Claims He Was Questioned By B.C. Police

Ernest Young, of Wheaton, Ill., who has been studying Indian customs in British Columbia and Alberta during the summer, has a war story to tell his friends. He claims he was detained as a suspected spy by British Columbia provincial police.

"They must have seen me excavating near an old Indian village near Prince Rupert," he said in an interview at Edmonton. "Anyway, they arrested me, questioned me for nearly an hour, and then, after verifying my credentials, released me."

Young did considerable excavating in search of buried Indian relics since he reported he had discovered several old coastal Indian customs which have not been noted in research books.

He is a graduate of Wheaton College and conducted the Indian research for the department of anthropology of the Illinois college.

Demand Is Steady

Man Finds It Easy To Sell Refrigerator To Eskimos

Harlow Olsen says there is nothing tough about selling an ice box to an Eskimo. In fact, he said, he and his brother sell them at their Bethel, Alaska, trading post. Visiting at Clarinda, Iowa, Olsen explained there actually is a demand among Eskimos for ice boxes since supplies are received in the summer and perishables must be kept cool.

Interested In Veterans

Touching Incidents Of Royal Tour In Canada Are Recalled

Interesting and touching incidents which occurred during the royal tour in Canada last spring were recalled in an address in Guelph by Nancy Pyper, a member of the press party which covered the visit of Their Majesties.

Mrs. Pyper recalled that the Queen approached one veteran during the journey, and said, "I have seen you before." But the veteran knew that it was not so. "You were with my brother in the same internment camp in Germany in the war." It turned out that that was so and the Queen had seen the man's face only in a picture that had been sent her by her brother.

Mrs. Pyper felt that the death of one brother and the experience of the others of her five brothers had so impressed the youthful Elizabeth that her love for the veterans was a tremendous power. On the return trip from Vancouver, the King and Queen were to see in the stadium the ambulance cases among the veterans of the last war. There was one, without arms, who had tied about his stumps of arms, a shawl. The Queen approached, smiling to each man and speaking to many. She passed the man without arms, an expression of pain crossing her face. Then her back stiffened and she turned to him again. She passed her hands gently down his face.

With tears streaming down his face, the veteran said: "I didn't think Your Majesty would do that to me."

She replied: "You couldn't touch me, so I touched you."

Hard To Do Without

Housewives In Germany Have To Use Substitutes For Soap

There are stories that come out of Germany now and again that are not merely propaganda. They are from American correspondents in the Reich who, within the limits of censorship, and without the limits of what the Nazi officials are delighted to show them, provide little straws in the wind that lie beyond denial.

Take the latest one about soap. This commodity is an invaluable luxury in Germany to-day, as it was in the late years of the World War. Housewives have been informed by the "research" group of the German Women's Work Organization of Leipzig that an ersatz laundry system has been found to give fine results. Water, in which potato peels have been lengthily soaked, is recommended for things not too lightly colored, and water in which ivy leaves have been cooked is advised for woollens and gloves—Hamilton Spectator.

Something Entirely New

B.B.C. Makes It Possible For Soldiers To Broadcast Home

With the British Expeditionary Force in France, (Passed by Field Censor)—For the first time in history, British soldiers in active service abroad are going to broadcast to the folks back home.

The British Broadcasting Company has brought equipment to the army's general headquarters and plans eventually, to broadcast actual battles on the French-German border.

Meanwhile, the Tommies will broadcast incidents from their lives at the front, where they man pill-boxes, trenches and big guns. In this manner, mothers "somewhere in Great Britain" will hear the voices of sons "somewhere in France," know that they are safe and learn as much as the soldiers are permitted to tell of army life in this war.

The B.B.C. has a mobile unit equipped for direct broadcasts, and the first broadcasts will be made on discs, which will be taken to London by airplane and put on the radio.

The first disc is to be made at the front line.

Population Of The World

Writer Estimates That There Are Now 1,500,000,000 People

A statistically minded friend estimates that the entire population of the world could be comfortably housed in Illinois. Assuming that there are 1,500,000,000 people on the planet, each would have 1,000 square feet of space within the boundaries of the State. If five constituted a family they could occupy a lot 50 by 100 feet. The calculation does not allow for streets, stores or factories, but if part of the people were housed in skyscraper hotels, apartments ample room would be left for the usual accessories of a civilized community—"W. Feather in The Santa Fe Magazine."

Typical of the British spirit is the fact that Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., has at the age of 50 given up one of the most lucrative law practices in London in order to join the Royal Air Force.

The combined naval strength of Britain and France is five times that of Germany.

Met Lawrence Of Arabia

But Famous Soldier Was Not Recognized By Party Guests

Leonard Lyons, in the New York Post says when Vincent Sheean first went to London he told his friend, Gordon Foster, that the man he was most anxious to meet was Lawrence of Arabia. Foster promised to arrange it, and two weeks later he invited Sheean to a cocktail party. The next day he asked: "Well, how'd you like Lawrence?" "But I never met him," Sheean protested. "Oh, yes, you did," his host assured. "That was Mr. Lawrence, the short man in the tweed suit. I introduced you to him." "But he seemed so insignificant nobody paid attention to him," Sheean lamented. "Why didn't you tell me that 'Mr. Lawrence' was Lawrence of Arabia?" "He wouldn't let me," Foster explained. "He said 'I'd come only under those conditions because as plain 'Mr. Lawrence' he knew nobody'd bother him."

Loss For Great Pianist

Land Once Owned By Paderewski Now Worth Millions

One of the saddest figures in the world to-day is that of the famous pianist, Ignace Paderewski, with his beloved Poland gone and his health failing . . . Just now we heard of another snafu, but very real misfortune in Paderewski's life. Some years ago, during a concert tour on this continent, he invested most of his fortune in a nut-raising farm at Santa Maria, California. The enterprise failed and his big investment was lost. Recently, just as broken health cancelled what was to have been his final tour, he heard that the Santa Maria property, which used to belong to him, is now an oil field, yielding millions. —Toronto Telegram.

Agricultural Experts Meeting In London Will Study Markets

Ottawa.—Developments have directed attention to efforts being made in government circles to iron out difficulties which, due to the abnormal wartime conditions in the United Kingdom, have tended to damp up the normal flow of foodstuffs from Canada to Britain.

Announcement of the arrival in London of Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, to participate in empire conferences revealed that in his party are three outstanding experts in the marketing of farm products.

They are George McIvor, chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board; A. M. Shaw, head of the agriculture department's department of marketing; and H. D. Wilson, chief of the trade and commerce department's commercial intelligence bureau.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, announced that he hoped to be able, when he speaks in Winnipeg Nov. 15 before the United Grain Growers, to outline to the Canadian farmers what they should grow to be of greatest service to the allied cause.

Representative farmers coming to Ottawa have been pressing for something definite from the government. It was learned. On the one hand, they have been advised the best way they can serve the Allied cause is by stepping up production of foodstuffs.

On the other hand, they seek the immediate result of the start of the war has been to limit the flow of wheat to the United Kingdom and to stop apple exports almost entirely. Cheese, bacon and other agricultural products are being exported at prices which the farmers claim are below the cost of production.

The great difficulty, as one government official explained, is that countries competing with Canada in the United Kingdom market are prepared to accept the lower prices and Britain could hardly be expected to pay Canada relatively higher prices than Australia and New Zealand.

This official was convinced prices eventually would be adjusted upwards. In the meantime he thought it would be a mistake to hold up Canadian exports because the British Consumers might become accustomed to the products of other countries and Canada would not be able to get into the market should prices advance.

War may force Canada to follow the lead of Australia and New Zealand and make a levy on the farm products sold in the domestic market to be applied to the returns of the produce sold abroad. The Australian method is to levy on butter and cheese sold in that country so that they are able to hold the United Kingdom market even when prices drop very low.

The producer gets the same return whether his goods are sold at high prices at home or low prices abroad. So far Canada has refused to follow this practice because of the increased cost of living it might entail, but this official said it might be found necessary to institute such a levy as a war measure.

Belgium Wants Peace

But Will Fight Again If Country Is Invaded

Brussels.—Leopold, King of the Belgians, declared in a trans-Atlantic broadcast that if Belgium were invaded now her people would fight "with the same conviction" as in 1914 but "with forces 10 times stronger."

Addressing the people of the United States through a forum conducted by the New York Herald-Tribune, King Leopold reaffirmed Belgium's desire for peace and neutrality, and he asked for support of United States in this stand.

Sales Are Restricted

Lodz, Poland.—The Deutsche Lodzer Zeitung said Jews of Poland have been forbidden by the German occupation administration to deal in textiles, leather or leather goods. Jewish-owned textile factories in the textile centre may sell only to non-Jewish customers.

Is Norway Next?

Amsterdam.—Diplomatic sources predicted that Russia soon would ask concessions from Norway permitting the Soviet to establish a naval base at Narvik, strategic port on the northwestern Norwegian coast.

Glut Of Wheat Will Be Factor Tending To Keep Prices Down

Saskatoon.—Agreement between the federal government and the Saskatchewan wheat pool upon the main issue confronting Canadian agriculture in the present war was reached at a recent Ottawa meeting, said J. H. Wesson of Regina, president of the wheat pool, in an address to delegates attending the annual convention of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, here.

It was agreed that Mr. Wesson, that Canadian farmers must be guaranteed a "parity price," which the pool interpreted as the cost of production of agricultural produce. Personally, he did not believe that a set wartime price for wheat at, say, $1.15 per bushel would guarantee production cost. The correct price of wheat and other products depended upon the cost of farm operation, he felt.

The pool and the government differed, Mr. Wesson continued, on the method by which parity should be achieved. It was the opinion of the pool that operation of the futures market should be suspended during the war period, because of the fact that Great Britain was making purchases of wheat through a single government agency. A condition whereby many selling agencies were competing in the sale of wheat to a single buyer could not benefit the farmer, the speaker said.

The government stand was that the market price for wheat might rise when purchase of Canadian wheat by Great Britain became heavy and for this reason desired to leave the futures market alone, at least until the price trend was established. It was essential that the financial position of agriculture be maintained in a healthy state during the war, Mr. Wesson said, for the unemployment which was expected to follow the war might well break the back of an economically unsound industry.

The glut of wheat in the world at the present time, and particularly the glut of wheat in Canada, was regarded by Mr. Wesson as a factor which would tend to keep down the price. He looked for no great increase in the price of wheat when British purchases started.

The speaker criticized the government for not giving agriculture representation upon the various boards engaged in the marketing of agricultural products. Agriculture, said he, was interested in a successful prosecution of the war. Profiteering, Mr. Wesson maintained, must be quelled.

Russian Stand

Informa Great Britain That Contraband List Violates Law

Moscow.—Soviet Russia informed Great Britain that she considered the British contraband list a violation of the principles of international law.

The Russian stand was set forth in a statement which Tass, Soviet news agency, said the assistant minister of foreign affairs, Vladimir Potemkin, handed to the British ambassador, Sir William Seeds.

The Russian note, replying to Great Britain's notification of her contraband lists, said: "The people's commissariat of foreign affairs, on instructions of the government of the U.S.S.R., has the honor to state the following:

"The announcement by unilateral act of the British government of lists of goods proclaimed war contraband in the note of Sept. 6 violates the principles of international law which found their general expression in the international declaration of regulations of naval warfare of Feb. 26, 1909, gravely impairs the interests of neutral countries and destroys international trade.

"By including in its lists of contraband such articles and goods as fuel, paper, cotton, fodder for agricultural animals, footwear, clothing and materials for their manufacture and even all foodstuffs—bread, meat, butter, sugar and other foodstuffs—the British government in fact proclaims contraband basic articles of basic consumption and creates the possibility of unlimited arbitrariness in classing all articles of popular consumption as war contraband."

"This inevitably leads to profound disorganization of the supply of the peaceful civil population with necessities, gravely endangers the health and lives of the peaceful population and portends innumerable calamities for the masses of people."

"It is known that universally recognized principles of international law do not permit air bombardment of peaceful population of women, children and aged people."

"On the same grounds, the Soviet government deems it not permissible to deprive a peaceful population of foodstuffs, fuel and clothing and thus subject children, women and aged people and invalids to every hardship and to starvation by proclaiming goods of popular consumption as war contraband."

"Proceeding from the above, the Soviet government declares that it does not agree to the note of the British government of Sept. 6 and refuses to recognize any validity of this note."

Edmonton Japanese Is Now Serving In Canadian Army

Edmonton.—Walter Semmatus Nishikawa, a native of Japan who wants to serve Canada because "I appreciate the freedom that I have had since I came here as a boy," was on duty as a lance-corporal in the Edmonton regiment, formerly of Calgary and Winnipeg, is a qualified dental mechanic and his five-year experience in first aid proficiency qualified him for detail to the medical section of the regiment.

Friendly Relations

Senator Borah Says U.S. Greatly Respects And Admires Canadians

Washington.—Relations between the United States and Canada are so friendly, in the opinion of Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), there's no use in trying to improve them.

Borah told the senate a number of Canadians had asked him to try to do so. He inserted one of his replies in the congressional record, saying: "Let's travel along undisturbed the path which we have so gloriously marked out for ourselves, peace, friendship, and commerce, with just a little modification of our trade agreements, if you find it possible to let us have it. But we will not quarrel with you even about that."

Part of a letter Senator Borah sent Miss Helen McPherson of Vulcan, Alta., follows:

"I have your letter and have read it, not only with deep interest, but with active sympathy with your views as to the relations which should obtain between your country and mine."

And, I venture to declare, without the slightest doubt as to the correctness of my statement, that the people of the United States, not only greatly respect and admire our Canadian neighbors, but they trust them as few people ever trusted another people. There are no seeds of estrangement anywhere in this country that I know of, no reason for distrust, and no occasion for debating the possibilities of trouble."

Are not the relations between our countries without precedent, no fears, no hatred, no enmity, no distrust, on either side of the border line? Then why debate, or discuss the subject? Let's leave it all to the people. The people of the United States and Canada will have no trouble and will get along magnificently, as they have in the past, if they are just permitted to go their own way and attend to their own business."

Increase Purchases

Japanese Are Buying More Goods From United States

New York.—The Wall Street Journal says Japanese purchases in the United States have increased approximately one-third since the outbreak of war.

Increased orders are being concentrated mainly in petroleum, machinery and iron and steel. Part of the orders Japan would normally place in Europe, notably Germany.

"Decision of the Japanese government to link the yen to the dollar, instead of the pound, is partly based upon the heavier purchases being made in this country."

No General Election Before The Next Session Of Parliament

Repeal Arms Embargo

United States Senate Approves Neutrality Bill

Washington.—Voting overwhelmingly to repeal the arms embargo, the United States senate approved the administration neutrality bill and sent it on to the house of representatives where proponents of the measure claim a small but safe majority.

The 63-to-39 vote was the climax of four weeks' debate and a discussion which has raged throughout the country since war broke out. The bill would permit the European belligerents to buy United States products of any kind, with the restriction that in general they must pay cash, may borrow no money here, and must provide foreign ships for transporting their purchases across the Atlantic.

(The bill generally is considered as aiding the Allies owing to Great Britain's control of the Atlantic ocean by the royal navy.)

Further, it is intended to insulate the United States from the war by laying down conditions designed to prevent "incidents" likely to inflame public opinion or tending otherwise to drag this country into the conflict.

Four weeks of debate had so fully covered the issue of the embargo that when the senate reached the point at which it was confronted with what Senator Clark (Dem., Missouri) called the "naked issue of whether we should have an embargo or not," the legislators finally found that they had nothing more to say.

The vote on repeal, presented by Clark in the form of an amendment to insert an embargo into the present bill, showed 60 senators for repeal and 33 against it. However, three of those who voted to retain the embargo, although beaten on that issue, felt obliged to support the bill on final passage. They were Senators Gillette (Dem.-Iowa), Reed (Rep.-Kansas) and Johnson (Dem.-Colorado). Thus, the vote on final passage was 63 to 30.

Contributes Large Sum

Indian Prince Offers $50,000 Monthly For War Purposes

London.—The Nizam of Hyderabad, fabulously wealthy Indian prince, has offered the Viceroy of India a monthly contribution of £11,250 ($50,000) towards the cost of maintaining cavalry and infantry units of the Hyderabad state forces which may be called on for service outside the state, it was officially announced.

The Nizam already has made a cash contribution of £100,000 ($447,000) to the air ministry for aerial warfare. He gave a similar sum for anti-submarine warfare in 1917.

Britain Is Cheered By The Striking Air And Sea Successes

London.—Striking air and sea successes cheered Britons as they discussed Prime Minister Chamberlain's outspoken remark in the House of Commons that there could be but one reply to Germany's actions and "we are prepared to give it."

The shattered wreck of a German submarine was washed up on the Dover strait shoals called "Goodwin sands," and at almost the same time the air ministry announced that at least seven of 12 German aircraft failed to return to their home bases after an unsuccessful attack upon a British convoy in the North sea.

"As announced at the time, we had no losses," added the air ministry's communique on the air attack.

Boatmen at Deal, just opposite the treacherous Goodwin sands, which are just off the southeast coast of Kent, said they located the stricken sub when its conning tower stuck out of the water.

Gunfire had been heard off Deal but a heavy mist prevented sight of any action.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax told an attentive house of lords that Russia would not have jumped into Poland with the red army "if the German government had not not started it and set the example."

In addition, the foreign secretary said, it should be remembered that

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that reports the government was considering holding a general election before the next session of parliament, scheduled to open in January, were unauthorized "and wholly without foundation."

The prime minister said in a statement that the government's intention concerning an election was set out clearly on Sept. 12 during the special session of parliament when he indicated there would be no election before the next session of parliament.

Text of the prime minister's statement follows:

Statements have recently appeared in the press, and have been repeated elsewhere to the effect that the government was considering the holding of a general election in advance of another session of parliament. No statements never were authorized and are wholly without foundation.

The government's intention with respect to the possibility of an election before another session was clearly set forth in the House of Commons on Sept. 12 in the course of the special session.

Speaking at that time in reply to the leader of the opposition I said:

"As to the question of a general election before another session, my hon friend has been kind enough to say that I told him some time ago that I would not think of anything of the kind or contenance it. Nor have I had a suggestion from any member of parliament that a general election should be thought of between now and another session. It is my intention to have parliament called again in January. It may possibly be necessary to have parliament called before that, but I should expect that we would follow the usual procedure and bring on members together some time in the month of January."

At no time have I entertained an intention other than the one here expressed.

News items have also been appearing, asserting or purporting to indicate that the government's intention with respect to certain appointments. They too have been wholly unauthorized. Except where an official intimation is given of the appointments themselves, statements with reference thereto should be considered as purely speculative, in many cases obviously expressing some wish that is farther to the thought or its inspiration.

Coarse Grains Included

Winnipeg.—Railway officials announced that the embargo on wheat shipments from western Canada farms to terminal elevators at the head of the lakes has been extended to coarse grains "for an unspecified period."

The Russian army stopped at substantially the Polish-Russian boundary which was recommended to the Versailles conference by Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary at that time.

But Lord Halifax hastened to add: "The last thing I would wish to do in this matter would be to defend the action of the Soviet government at the particular time they took it."

Without referring to Russia's protest at the inclusion of foodstuffs in the British government's contraband list, Lord Halifax said consideration was being given to broadening the scope of Anglo-Soviet trade "since they now appear willing to trade impartially with all belligerents."

This would not only be of commercial value to Britain but might have the wider advantage of diverting Russian products from German markets.

Britain issued the first general call for volunteers since the war began. A war office announcement said voluntary enlistment was being opened for cavalry, infantry, artillery and engineers. Previously enlistment of only specialized classes had been asked.

Age limits for volunteers were set at 22 to 35 years in Great Britain and 20 to 35 years in Northern Ireland. After acceptance on the first call those enlisted will be sent home with orders to report Nov. 15.

How much that the world calls selfishness is only generosity with narrow walls—a too exclusive solicitude to maintain a wife in luxury, or make one's children rich.—T. W. Higginson.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

SO many people give no thought to any church, at least not until the services of a minister are needed for a wedding, a christening or a funeral. The church is merely a convenience to them. No thought of how the minister is paid, or the light, fuel or other expenses are met. The cold truth is that it is the faithful few in every community who by their regular givings provide the church services to all when required, irrespective of the fact that some who seek the church's services have never contributed to its maintenance. Those who have given little support to their church should realize that they should bear a share of the cost, and make up their mind to send along a contribution, if they wish to do the right thing. Those who do keep the church going pay a definite amount weekly. It is the only way in which any institution can function. Good wishes avail little, in fact nothing, unless accompanied by something more tangible. Some day you'll die; no dodging that. And though you may not care, being dead, who buries you, your dear ones, those who love you, will care. This may not be a nice thing to talk of, but you can make it more pleasant for yourself and others by acknowledging a share of responsibility to the church, the pioneer of civilization where'er white men have trod.

RELIEF is like cancer, it grows and grows and grows. And taxpayers are called on to pay, and pay and pay, because some are too lazy or unable to keep themselves. For really deserving cases, provision has to be made, but all too frequently there is imposition on the taxpayers who have to furnish the money for relief. Taxpayers should keep an eye on the bills paid out every month for groceries only. There are other relief expenses. Provincial taxes include a portion for relief, and from municipal taxation in Coleman last year nearly one-fifth of the total revenue was expended in relief grants. It is the taxpayers business to check up on these expenses, seeing they have to pay.

STOREKEEPERS pay taxes on the assessed value of their stocks, yet little or no protection is given to prevent chiselling door-to-door competition of unlicensed peddlers. There are instances of individuals in regular employment here who go around selling Christmas cards and other things, who, if they had to pay a nominal license fee would hesitate to do so. Yet why should a merchant pay taxes when others are permitted to compete without paying a cent in taxes? Town by-laws should be so drawn up that there would be a taxation basis of equality for all engaged in selling, including the door-to-door peddler.

THE true story of Alberta's Treasury Branches remains to be revealed when government expenditures are reviewed. It's too early yet for these facts to be made known, but unquestionably someone will have to pay the cost—and the taxpayers will in all probability find that the bonus paid to purchasers of Alberta goods through the Treasury branches will be paid by themselves. We all remember the fiasco of the so-called Prosperity Certificates. California is going to have a try at the same plan, whereby the "Ham and Eggers" propose to pay $30 every Thursday to all over 60 years "to end poverty in the midst of plenty." Doesn't it sound familiar to Albertans who were promised $25.00 a month over four years ago. Quite likely the majority will vote for it as they did in Alberta. Soap bubbles with their bright hues are so alluring—but they always burst.

HALLOWEEN provides fun for the boys and girls—and older people have a share, too. They knock at doors, come in quite readily with their bags, and in their various disguises hide their identities. A few apples, peanuts and candy suckers satisfy their desires, and off they troop to the next port of call. The small amount spent to buy "treats" for the children isn't much, yet sends them away with light hearts and maybe—in later years—recalls happy memories of childhood's sunny hours. One is happier for having helped them to be happy. Who among the grown-ups didn't enjoy similar experiences?

STICKING to the job you are trained for is the best way to get on. Jumping from one job to another because it looks easier than the job you have never gets one ahead and usually is unsatisfactory to employers. "Jack of all trades, yet master of none" usually indicates lack of perseverance and "stick-to-itiveness," no matter how many jobs one may have tried. So many are built that way, making up the vast army of the mediocre. Stability is a precious asset for success in any task.

Both Have It Hard (Smith Falls Record)

Someone has raised the question as to the difficulties of a clergyman's occupation. Some still seem to think that the men of the cloth have a pretty time of it. Nothing could be further from the truth as anyone who has had close associations with the clergy will agree. He is called upon to do a thousand and one things. He is at the beck and call of every church group. He has a hundred and one different types of people to deal with and he must at the same time be an intellectual superior. Easy? In our opinion next to editing a weekly newspaper the minister has about the toughest time.

The use of printed matter is one of the most forceful factors in advertising, and can be used to great advantage. People respond far more readily to sales appeals which are well printed.

Farewell Party Honors Mrs. Wm. Bell

Mrs. J. Kinnear sr. was hostess at a surprise party at her home on Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Wm. Bell who left on Tuesday to take up residence at Nelson. Mrs. Bell was presented with a lovely picture of Crows Nest mountain. Prize winners at bridge were Mrs. S. B. Ryan, Mrs. A. Anderson, and Mrs. W. Bell consolation.

Since 1911 Mrs. Bell has lived in Coleman, and for many years, with her late husband managed the Grand Union hotel. Though regretting having to leave associates and friends of over 20 years, business affairs made necessary the change, as Mrs. Bell and her daughters Mae (Mrs. T. McGovern) and Margaret, with Mr. McGovern, have taken over the Savoy hotel in Nelson. Good wishes will follow them in the new venture in British Columbia.

OF INTEREST TO THE LADIES

Poor Response to Appeal for Voluntary Registration

Reports from almost every city and town show that the voluntary registration of women was far below expectations.

Mrs. C. Rose, who had charge of registration in Coleman, reports 88 having registered.

Most towns of similar size to Coleman show less, and registration in the cities was also disappointing. Many hesitate to sign anything that might incur responsibility, but are willing to help in any way they can towards the war effort.

They Read the Weekly Newspapers

A survey by Professor Cameron of Alberta University on periodicals and newspapers in connection with questionnaires relating to the Youth Training Movement disclosed the remarkable importance of the weekly newspapers of the province. His figures were that 72.6% of households get the local weekly; 34.5% get daily newspapers. Farm papers come next, highest, 37% of the homes getting more than two.

King George Inspired Song

New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra Played Novelty Number

King George VI, in a new record, was the inspiration of the novelty number on the program with which John Barbirolli and the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society opened the 98th season of the orchestra.

The reel showed the King visiting a boys' camp in England, explains Jeronim Weinberger, Czech composer now living in the United States. "The boys were singing a wonderful old folk tune, and among them was His Majesty the King."

"He was dressed in the same sort of sweater as his young subjects, and joined them in the singing and laughing."

This so impressed Weinberger, then a refugee living on the French Riviera, that he wrote a set of variations on the folk tune—"Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree."

But The Famous War Minstrels May Remobilize

Almost half a million Canadian soldiers of the first Great War cherish as their warmest memories the wistful antics of the Dumbells and there were unconfirmed rumors in Toronto that the internationally-famous war minstrels will remobilize.

According to reports, the company may be reorganized under their original producer, Capt. M. W. Plunkett, now an insurance man in Toronto. Plunkett himself said he had received no word.

Of the original troupe, Al Plunkett is doing radio work in Montreal; Jack Ayre, orchestra work in Toronto, and Capt. Ben Allen is assistant general manager of entertainment of the Canadian Legion War Services. Allen was added to the post-war touring company.

Ross Hamilton, "Marjorie" of the Dumbells, is in the brokerage business in Great Village, N.S.; Jerry Bayford is farming somewhere in Western Canada; Bill Tennant is in the dining service of the Canadian National Railways; Ted Charters is in the States.

Bertram Langley has retired; Jack McCormick is in Scotland; Al Murray sales insurance in Montreal; Red Newman is running a summer resort at Wasaga Beach; Leonard Young is director of recreation for a New York church.

A NOVEL GLASS GARDEN YOU CAN EASILY MAKE

Gay Blooms in a Glass Teapot A new and delightful kind of terrarium! In a glass teapot from the five-and-ten you can grow with almost no effort a lovely African violet, a bit of fern—or whatever plant you like.

To make this or almost any other terrarium you just put in the bottom some cinders or pebbles for drainage, and add soil. Keep the soil moist for an African violet, but don't let water get on the leaves.

A fine companion for your gaily blooming terrarium is a dish garden. Grow a dwarf pine from seed, pinching and pruning to get the effect of a grown tree in miniature. Or in your woodland ramble you may find a tiny pine, dwarfed by some accident. Dwarf trees do better with poor soil, little warmth.

You can make a fascinating dish garden, too, with an assortment of quaint cacti. Plant in sand mixed with a little garden loam, and water only occasionally.

Our 52-page booklet gives detailed instructions for all kinds of lovely dish gardens and terrariums. Tells how to raise exotic orchids and gardenias under glass, grow a practical and pretty kitchen herb garden in a window box.

Canadian Newspaper

Competes With Wheat For First Place Among Exports

Canada leads the world in the production of newspaper paper, and exports more newspaper than all other countries combined. Newspaper competes with wheat for first place among the commodities exported from the Dominion. The pulp and paper industry is Canada's most important manufacturing industry, and its phenomenal development during the present century has been due primarily to a fortunate combination of readily accessible resources of wood of superior quality for the manufacture of both paper and rayon and an abundance of well-distributed water-powers, as well as dependable supplies of fuel-water—Canadian Resources Bulletin.

Youth Training Program

Has Provided Helpful Instruction For Thousands Of Young People

Nearly 72,000 young men and women received helpful instruction under the Dominion and Provincial Youth training program during Canada's fiscal year ending in March.

The effects of non-employment upon the youth of this country, so many of whom had no work at all since leaving school, have been reflected in a break-down of morale, a waste of time and the development of useless habits, also a neglect of health measures.

The youth training program not only diverts the activities of youth into productive channels and revives their hope, but impresses them with the importance of health. In fact, some of the courses, such as that in forest, require open-air occupations that have a direct bearing on health.

Besides the courses which take young men into the forest wilderness, there are others which train them on the farm, in factories and mines. The scope of the training is broad. Women's courses include training in household management, sewing and various handicrafts.

During the two complete years that the program has been in existence, 127,000 young Canadians have received beneficial training—Kitchen Record.

Left In Vancouver Port

Duke Of Sutherland's Yacht Dis-masted And Furnishings Stowed

When the Duke of Sutherland cut short his hunting trip in northern British Columbia and rushed home because of the war, he left his 210-foot $450,000 yacht at anchor in the port of Vancouver, and a Vancouver sportsman, G. L. Pop, was asked to look after the Sans Peur, and her contents. Mr. Pop had all the furnishings removed to storage, and it took five huge moving vans to carry them. In the yacht were fishing and hunting equipment alone worth more than $10,000, cases of silver and linen and valuable books, six huge rugs (each required five men to carry it) and 70 pictures, including ethnics considered priceless. The Duke has offered the use of the yacht for war purposes to the British Government, but hasn't yet heard if the offer is to be accepted.

Explanations and Comments

Concerning Retaliation. Matthew 5:38-41. "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth" was said of old time, that is, the penalty was to fit the crime, but Jesus said, "Resist not him that is evil," never at in the spirit of revenge. "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" is called the Lex Talionis, the Law of Retaliation. As given in Ex. 21:24; Lev. 24:20; Dt. 19:21, it referred to punishment meted out by a court of justice, but the Jews held that it permitted private revenge.

This ancient law befitted the civilization it was meant to serve, and limited primitive revenge. It restrained the avenger from inflicting more punishment than he had himself suffered, and served a rational purpose. The primitive man's desire would be to kill a man, even a wife would, but Jesus had done him a wrong, but this law stepped in and said, you have had your eye put out? Then you must put out your adversary's eye—so much and no more.

But lit for tat is a sorry guide for human conduct, and Jesus counseled: Resist not him that is evil; but who-soever smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also. And if any man would go to law with thee, and take away thy coat, let him have the cloak also. The coat was the inner garment, which must be returned at night, Ex. 22:26. John A. Broadus recalls the Latin proverb which resembles this saying: "If one smite you for the egg give him the hen also." "It is altogether a defect in you, that you have lawsuits one with another," wrote Paul to the Corinthians, and then he asked, "Why not rather take wrong? Why not rather be defrauded?"

And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him two. The first is the mile of necessity; the second, the mile of free choice. The compulsion would come from the hiring of Herod or of Rome. "And who would wish to cart him and his goods down one mile?" questions Dr. F. B. Glover. "Well, the soldier is a man after all, and by such uncollected kindness you may make a friend even of a government official—at any rate, you can help him."

1½ tablespoons Benson's or Canada Corn Starch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash mustard
Dash of paprika
2 cups rich milk
1 tablespoon gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
2 cups diced chicken
1 cup stiffly whipped cream
1 lb. thinly sliced jellied tongue.

Method: Melt butter in saucepan; add corn starch and seasonings. Let bubble three minutes. Add milk; stir and cook until smooth. Dissolve gelatine in cold water and add to sauce. Stir until dissolved; add diced chicken. Let stand until mixture begins to set; fold in whipped cream. ## CURIANT COFFEE ROLLS

3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1 teaspoon salt
2½ tablespoons sugar
½ cup butter or other shortening
½ cup milk
Melted butter
Sugar
½ cup currants or seedless raisins
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
4 tablespoons finely chopped nut meats.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, beat sugar, and sift again. Cut in shortening; add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll ¼ inch thick and cut in 2½-inch squares. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with sugar. Sprinkle currants over dough. Roll each square as for jelly roll. Brush with mixture of egg yolk and 1 tablespoon sugar; sprinkle with nuts. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 2½ dozen rolls.

DISEASE HAZARDS 250 YEARS AGO

Silicosis and other occupational hazards to which modern science gives much attention not only existed centuries ago, but they were also recognized then.

Neither is compensation laws for industrial diseases a new idea. They were proposed as far back as 1690 when a Venetian doctor, Bernardino Ramazzini wrote a work on Diseases of Tradesmen ("De Morbis Artificum").

A copy of this book was recently found in the University of Pennsylvania library and its translation brings out facts that are most interesting in view of the period in which it was written.

Ramazzini, it appears, made a practice of leaving the sick bed and going to where the patient worked, to study materials and hygienic condition as a clue to the illness. In that way he obtained information, which he carefully recorded, on certain occupational diseases known to-day. He knew about silicosis—a disabling lung disease—which he saw afflicting the dust-breathing workers in the pottery and glass-making industries. Ramazzini anticipated modern sanitation methods by suggesting that materials be wetted to keep dust down and that arrangements be made for adequate ventilation.

Speaking of the occupational hazards of the white collar workers of two and a half centuries ago, he said of scholars, that the sedentary posture and intense concentration were bad for digestion. He even discussed writer's cramp. His prescription for these ills was "Get more of the outdoors into your life."

New Device Detects Approach Of Death In Patient

A new photo-electric eye which detects the approach of death in changing color of the skin was reported to the American College of Surgeons. The eye gives warning in time to administer life-saving oxygen. It was designed at the Ford hospital, Detroit, for use in surgical operations, and promises to be useful wherever anesthetic or sedatives have to be given.

Reported at a goller symposium by Dr. Roy D. McCure, Detroit, the eye has been used for a year experimentally on animals and now is about ready for human applications.

When death approaches in a surgical operation, and often in other forms, the blood grows darker. The change is due to loss of oxygen.

The doctor giving the anesthetic watches the pallor of the unconscious person for the oxygen danger signs. By giving more oxygen he can stave off the final sinking. But he can see only the surface.

The new eye looks virtually into the blood itself by placing a strong light behind the ear. Some of the rays pass through tissues and blood. The electric eye picks up these rays and detects change in the blood color too light for the human eye to see.

THE RIVER OF SKULLS

Leaving Rough with Heather, Alan and John took the puppies and dropped downstream to meet Noel at the Forks and bring his heavy cargo up the strong water of the Talking.

When the sudden chill of the early September dusk settled on the river valley and Rough had his supper, he followed Heather into the cabin and, while she ate, lay on the floor at her feet.

Suddenly the husky raised his head, his ears pointed and nostrils working.

"What is it, Rough—a wolf come to call on us?"

The dog stalked on stiff legs to the door, his back hair rising, and sniffed through the crack at the bottom, then sucked his breath in a low snarl.

"Why, what can it be?" exclaimed the girl, standing in the middle of the room listening. At dusk she had dropped the heavy cross slab of birch which made the door secure, into its seats on each of the door jambs. With a step she reached the gun-rack, drew her .38 revolver from its holster and slipped it into the hip pocket of her whipcords.

Then she seized her .30-30 carbine, cocked it, and stood beside the uneasy dog.

Presently the husky flew into a veritable frenzy. Hair bristling, he scratched frantically at the door sill, voicing his anger with snarls of rage.

"Roughy, Roughy, what is it, boy?" she whispered. "I can't open the door, Rough! I don't dare! What's there, boy?"

Shortly, above the dog's growls, rose a voice outside the cabin.

"Kekway! Kekway!" Heather froze where she stood grasping her rifle. Indians! It was the Montagnais salutation to friends or strangers. Were they McQueen's men? Did they know she was alone with Rough? What should she do?

Again came the call: "Kekway! 'allo!"

Then Heather got control of her nerves. These men had come in the night to a camp. By the law of the north, from Labrador to Alaska, they would be welcomed and fed, if they were hungry. She must tie Rough up, open the door and see what they wanted.

Faithfully dragging the reluctant husky from the door, she secured him to the spruce upright of the bunk with a heavy rawhide, then lifted the cross bar and opened the door, still holding her cocked rifle.

"Kekway," she called as the faint light from the single candle illuminated the doorway.

From the gloom of the clearing came the reply: "You tie husky?"

"Yes, he's tied up! Who are you?" Heather demanded in the calmest tones she could muster.

"Hunter from Conjugur River!" came the reply in the unmistakable voice of an Indian. "We roll canoe rapids—lose all meat we shoot. Water spoil flour."

Two blurred figures emerged from the murk of the clearing to stand in the doorway where the suspicious girl nervously fingered the trigger of her .30-30. Inside, the angry Rough filled the room with his snarls.

"Where's your canoe—your camp?" she asked, doubtful of this story of a rapids in the rapids above the camp.

"We save canoe an' mak' fire on shore here. Den we fin' path. Eet was dark—we not see cat, before."

The light from the door lit the sweet faces of the Montagnais as they stared in amazement at the tall, blonde haired girl in men's breeches holding the rifle. She had seen many Indians but there was something in the mink-like eyes of these men she did not like. From the Conjugur River, they said, "What nothing to the girl whose heart beat with apprehension. Why had her father left her alone?

"You are hungry?" she asked. "The older of the two men nodded. "Eh-eh, yes! Were ccs man?"

"Three men," she quickly replied. "They come back tonight!"

"Ah-hah!" the Indians exchanged significant glances. Men did not travel at night in the "bush," or on swift rivers.

"You trade at Fort George?" she asked the older man who had done all the talking.

"Eh-eh, at Fort George? Were you cum?"

"From Rupert House—Nichuan." Again the Indians squinted doubtfully into each other's dark faces.

"Come inside and I'll give you some supper." The men were hungry.

"Dat dog!" said the older Montagnais. "I see heem on Fort George!"

"No," replied Heather, starting to make tea and placing some cold caribou and bannock on the table, "he belongs to me."

While the Indians ate ravenously Heather boldly met their furtive glances from where she sat on the bunk besides the fretting husky.

The fighting blood of her soldier father boiled in the girl's veins at the insolence as she rose to her feet. "You sleep at your camp!" Her heart pounded in her throat, her eyes went black with anger, as the grinning younger man leered into her tense face.

"Our blanket ees wet. We sleep here!" Insisted the other with a scowl. "Put husky out! He ees cross!"

Then moving nearer to the girl, whose right hand stole to her hip pocket, the younger of the Indians reached to touch her hair, as he said: "Eet ees lak' de sun."

But as she drew back from the hand approaching her head there was a snarl from the bunk across the room and, launched by his iron-muscle legs, Rough's one hundred and forty pounds of bone and sinew catapulted into his collar, snapping the rawhide leash like paper. Again the dog leaped, carrying the young Indian screaming to the floor as the older man disappeared through the door. Again and again the infuriated husky struck with his great tusks at the defending arms of the panic-stricken Indian. Then Heather threw herself upon the dog and with a desperate wrench on his collar fell with him sideways to the floor. Momentarily freed from the dog, with a leap the Indian shot through the half open door, pulling it shut behind him.

Alan and McCord arrived with Noel and the two canoes and Heather told them of the Montagnais and their visit by the infuriated Rough. The indignant men stared at each other in disgust.

"And to think," groaned McCord, "we staked that pair to grub when we met them on the river. I want to see them show up here again."

That night, while Heather listened the three men went into their plans for the winter. There was, indeed, much work to be done if Alan and Noel were to find a water trail to the Koksoak in the spring.

That night, while Heather listened the three men went into their plans for the winter. There was, indeed, much work to be done if Alan and Noel were to find a water trail to the Koksoak in the spring.

Alan and McCord arrived with Noel and the two canoes and Heather told them of the Montagnais and their visit by the infuriated Rough. The indignant men stared at each other in disgust.

"And to think," groaned McCord, "we staked that pair to grub when we met them on the river. I want to see them show up here again."

Heather! Or—we'd never dare to make the try!"

The girl gave a little shiver as her brows contracted in a frown. "Somehow I've got the feeling that we're never coming back—that we're going to starve or drown in the rapids, or the Naskapi will get us."

"Here! here! what's all this talk?" John turned from the fireplace where he had been shaping birch axe-belves with a draw-knife. "Is this my big girl who rent the Indians about their business? Of course we're coming back! We're going to meet that deer migration and come up the Koksoak, next fall, with so much gold dust and meat on the sled that—"

"Suppose de spirit scare away de deer from Riviere ov Skull," interrupted Noel, who was plating dog harness, his dark face full of foreboding. "Wat we do den?"

Alan looked up from his maps to grin at John. "Why then we'd have to eat the spirits in the Moaning Gorge, Noel."

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent To Be At War Front

Action of the Canadian Active Service Force in France will be reported by a Canadian Press staff war correspondent, W. Rupert Davies, president, told the semi-annual meeting of the board of directors of the Canadian Press.

Mr. Davies, who made a three-week tour of central European capitals immediately before the outbreak of war, said that Canadian newspapers were being provided with the most complete news coverage on the war available to any group of newspapers in the world. In addition to the output of the Canadian Press London bureau there were available for use the reports of the Associated Press, Reuters, Havas News Agency and the Press Association, co-operative new body of the United Kingdom newspapers.

In connection with the service of 15-minute radio news bulletins provided without charge to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for use across Canada three times daily and once at night, the board expressed its appreciation of the assistance of Major Gladstone Murray, CBC general manager, that those bulletins would be made available to all radio stations in Canada.

J. A. McNeil, general manager, expressed appreciation of the "most reasonable and accommodating" attitude shown by W. S. Thompson, chairman of the censorship co-ordination committee, in dealing with various matters arising between him and the newspapers.

Working Under Handicap

Publishing A Paper In Paris Appears To Be Difficult

As it celebrates its 52nd anniversary, our Paris edition faces a difficult problem, says the New York Herald Tribune. The triple threat to every newspaper publisher—reduced circulation, cancelled advertising and increased costs—has struck. Censorship has become a serious obstacle in the path of publication, more because of the valuable time consumed in carrying galleys and page proofs between the plant and the censor's bureau than of the restrictions imposed by the censor.

Colonels In The South

One From Texas Tells How The Title Is Acquired

Colonel Carter, Texas newspaper owner, who arrived in England by the first passenger Clipper, gives one big grin when you ask him how he got his title.

"You boys want to watch us Southern Colonels." Remember the story of Carey Grayson, Taft and Teddy Roosevelt's doctor, going to visit his friend Sims in Kentucky?

"Is that his house," he asks the negro boy's driving him. "No, sir, Colonel Sims he lives there," answers the boy, "I didn't know Sims was a colonel," says Grayson. "How did he get the title?"

"Well, it's this way," says the boy. "In Kentucky some men's just born Colonels, some is made Colonels by the governor, and—well, Colonel, a heap get called Colonels by giving us poor niggers two dollars."

Task Rather Hard

Author Wrote Lengthy Novel Without Using The Letter "E"

The letter "e" is the most used of all letters of the alphabet. In the type case the "e" compartment is larger than any other letter. Which makes noteworthy the feat of Ernest Vincent Wright, who died the other day in Los Angeles at the age of 67. Mr. Wright wrote the 50,000-word novel, "Gadsby" without once using the letter "e". It would not have been an "easy" task.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Name Changed Again

Nazis "One Pot Sunday" Now Known As "Sacrifice Sunday"

Propaganda Minister Goebbels announced that Germany's "one pot Sunday" would become "sacrifice Sunday". The reason, he said, was that "one pot meal already has become a regular fare of the German people." He did not explain what the Germans would have to "sacrifice" in addition on the designated Sundays. During past campaigns one Sunday was set aside monthly when restaurants served only simple stew or a similar dish, with a percentage of the price paid to the winter relief fund.

BUILD UP THE CHILDREN

CHATHAM, Ont. —Mrs. Charlotte Lee of 42 Ingraham St. says: "After an illness one of my children was very weak and underweight. I gave him Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and his appetite improved. He gained his normal weight and strength. This medicinal tonic never failed to help me right up to the time I was weak after bad colds. I certainly recommend it to mothers with growing children."
